

Heart Shaped Treats

Here's something wonderful to whip up for your Valentine this year. I know I'm going to make another couple of batches for the kids and probably my neighbors. After all, who doesn't want a sweet treat? And, if you'd rather make them with your sweeties, they are very easy to do.

Start by following the directions on the brownie package or the Rice Krispies box to make a pan of treats.

Then, using heart shaped cookie cutters, cut out as many heart shaped treats as you can. I had several sizes of cutters and that helped use the pans up without a ton of waste. Although we all know what happens to the waste!!

Once the treats are cut out, you may have to neaten the edges by pressing the brownie or rice krispies together a bit.

The final step in the preparation is the decoration! I added chocolate frosting and peppermint sprinkles to my brownies, and Matt stayed pure with white frosting for his krispie treats. Be extra creative with yours by adding names or sentiments!

Don't forget that even if they don't come out looking fabulous....they definitely taste fabulous!
